

SAT Test Preparation

Are you ready for the SAT? Then start getting prepared. The new SAT has changed more simply than an added essay portion. Some of the changes include:

- New content from third-year college preparatory math
- Shorter reading passages added
- Analogies eliminated
- Quantitative Comparisons eliminated
- A student-written essay added

Plan ahead

With a little preparation, students can gain confidence and typically gain on their points per section. At Baker Language & Learning Center, we use the same tried-and-true strategies that the College Board recommends: review of information learned in school, sample tests, and teacher-guided lessons in math, reading, writing, and test-taking strategies. We even use the The Official SAT Online Course™.

What to expect

Our program is specifically geared to the student. We begin with a simulated SAT, score it, and write a report based on areas of strength and areas that need attention. Then we begin the program—your program. At the end of the program, we administer another SAT simulation and compare the scores.
